

GRANITE KERBS

The roads and paths in the Garden of Remembrance at Parc Gwyn are lined with grey granite kerb memorials that have been purchased over many years.

Kerb memorials are made of solid polished grey granite and can accept the name of one person together with a short inscription or the names of two people and their dates of death. It is possible to leave half a kerb blank for a second inscription and to reserve a whole kerb for use later on.

When deciding on an inscription, it is important to limit lines with the name in to 15 letters as these are cut as capitals. Other lines should be limited to 20 letters. Staff at Parc Gwyn will gladly help with deciding on an inscription.

Here are two examples to illustrate what is possible:
