

School names shortlist

A public invitation to suggest names for the new Welsh medium School being built in Haverfordwest produced a fantastic response.

Scores of ideas were put forward by people with ties to the County including Americans once based at Brawdy who still keep abreast of the County's news and developments.

A shortlist of names has now been drawn up by the school's Temporary Governing Body before a public consultation period begins.

Three names have been chosen, two with variations.

They are:

- Ysgol Gymraeg Llwynhelyg (Withybush Welsh School)
- Ysgol Gymraeg Glan-Cleddau / Ysgol Calon y Cleddau (School at the heart of the Cleddau)
- Ysgol Gymaraeg Waldo Williams / Ysgol Bro Waldo (Waldo Williams Welsh School /

"We had a great response from the public with many ideas and suggestions put forward for the Temporary Governing Body to digest," said the body's chair Tegryn Jones.

"It wasn't easy to whittle the list down, however we felt any one of these names will encapsulate the culture and philosophy of the school when it opens in September 2018."

A process of consultation will now take place with pupils, parents and members of the public.

Any views should be submitted to admin.glancleddau@pembrokeshire.gov.uk by Friday, 20th October.

The Temporary Governing Body will then make a recommendation, which will require the approval of Pembrokeshire County Council Cabinet before the final name is announced.

Caption

An artist's impression of the new Welsh medium School that is due to open in September 2018.