

Experiencing Dementia

Designed for: Dementia Champions and Social Care staff who want to gain knowledge and insight into the experience of a person living with dementia.

Course aim: This training will:

- Guide participants through a series of dynamic and practical exercises which provide a unique insight into dementia
- Invite participants to engage with the emotional and psychological experience of dementia, exploring the questions "What if it was me living with dementia, how would I feel, what would I need?"
- Develop compassionate perspectives and a greater understanding between staff, people living with dementia and family members
- Provide a space for participants to share practice and reflect on experiences

"In over 20 years of front-line working, this has to have been the most powerful and meaningful training I have ever completed. I wish I'd had access to this a long time ago"

Course Leaders: Re-Live Training
(Re-Live are a team of specialist practitioners in compassionate approaches to dementia care.)
